
Both axes logarithmic. The slope near two is the all pairs sum; the vertical offset between the lines is what the memory hierarchy is worth.